

it is bad enough now when everyone uses their cell phones onboard the moment it becomes permissable, but to endure an entire flight forced into listening to everyone's calls, would be torture. It is absolutely unnecessary. Certainly people can survive without their phones for the duration of any flight!